BSTI's powerful Web-Hosted Servers will give any company the opportunity to fully operate BSTI's software solutions in a trusted, secure location. Breckenridge Software's Web-Hosted Services have the ability to be accessed by any company employee, from any location, at any time, provided internet accessibility, and secure login (username and password protected for every user). As a company, our extreme confidence in our Web-Hosted solutions lead us to offer the Web-Hosted Service option as a month-to-month rental payment with no long term contracts required. Simply pay first and last month's rent and your company profile can be ready for full system operation within hours. The Web-Hosted Servers are able to run all BSTI software solutions exactly how they would be run if installed on your in-house computer systems. The following list outlines the basic functionality and capabilities of the Breckenridge Web-Hosted Services. Please understand that this merely highlights the scope and that many additional functions are available.

- 1. Breckenridge Software solutions are pre-installed and ready for launch: All BSTI software solutions are pre-loaded on our company servers. We will work with you and your company to add unique data pertinent to your specific industry while making any and all other system adjustments prior to your account activation. All systems are capable of being fully functional within hours of purchase.
- 2. Effortless account access: Log into your company account from any location where a computer/smart-tablet and internet connection is available. View all data exactly like you would from your office. This function enables company managers, administrators, and salespeople to log into their individual profiles to enter, record, view, and print data in real-time, at a moment's notice.
- 3. Save time and money: At a low flat rate, the cost of operating BSTI software solutions allow companies to use their saved cash flow in areas most important to the growth and success of their business. Let BSTI invest our own time and money in the latest security, software, and server technologies and spend your saved time and money in core business functions to enhance your company.
- 4. Multiple layers of security: Every account is protected by a unique password and username to ensure system security. In addition, our powerful servers are monitored 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, to guarantee all software solutions are being accessed by only those with appropriate clearance. Within every company account, the solutions are equipped with extensive administrative security settings to enable or prohibit specific users from accessing and performing a variety of tasks.
- 5. Enhanced customer service, support, and training: Our software engineers will be able to log into your company account to see exactly what it is you see. This will enable our support staff to solve and answer any and all questions you may have in a timely, precise manner. This function also provides an excellent opportunity to conduct preliminary and on-going training activities to teach both new and pre-existing staff members how to efficiently use BSTI software solutions.
- 6. Software updates at your convenience: All software updates will be installed by our software engineers to limit the responsibility placed on your administrative staff. To meet your company needs, we will only update your company account when you tell us to. This will allow your company to learn and view all system modifications at your own convenience.
- 7. "Delegate" the system administration role: Rely on our experienced software engineers to handle a number of your computer software concerns. Data back-up and retrieval services, security administration, system auditing, error recovery, annual archiving activities, software updates, and system installations are all managed and performed by our experienced Breckenridge Software staff.
